A ruin turned into a gem.

The conversion of a structure ready for demolition into a bourgeois Palace was not only a technically interesting project but also represents an important reference project for PORR in Poland. In the course of a competition staged by the Polish Building Engineers' and Technicians' Association together with the Infrastructure Ministry and the Department of Building Supervision, the building was awarded Best Structure of 2012 in the 1st category.

Impressions

Image notes

1

Le Palais Warsaw.

Carefully renovated, the two historic town houses' Neo-Renaissance façades shine in new splendour

2

Le Palais Warsaw.

Lovingly restored down to the last detail – one of the historic stucco ceilings

3

Le Palais Warsaw.

The old and the modern combined in a neat way –
the new entrance area
